DPS Instruments, Inc. Elects Richard R. Kurtz to Board of Directors

ONTARIO, CALIFORNIA — February 4, 2008 -- DPS Instruments, Inc., manufacturer of the world's only modular gas chromatograph system, announced that Richard R. Kurtz has been elected to the Board of Directors.

Mr. Kurtz served as President, Chief Operating Officer, and Director of Alltech International Holdings, Inc. (Deerfield, IL) from 2003 to 2004 and as President, Chief Operating Officer, and Director of Alltech Associates, Inc. from 1987. In 2004, these companies were acquired by the W.R. Grace and Co (NYSE:GRA). At the time of Alltech's acquisition by the WR Grace Co. it had annual sales approaching $55,000,000 and approximately 250 employees worldwide.

Until its acquisition by W.R.Grace, Alltech was an international company engaged in the research and development, manufacture, testing, sale, and distribution of chromatography products - both consumables (accessories) and instrumentation (capital equipment).

David Pierce, President of DPS Instruments, said, "Mr. Kurtz's vast industry knowledge, distributor relationships, and international business experience will be an indispensable resource now and as we move forward with our pending merger with RM Investors, Inc.
